

IDTA Practitioner Register

Introduction

The IDTA Practitioner Register aims to provide accessible information so the public can identify (or confirm the status of) professionals operating under the auspices of EATA, ITAA and/or WPATA within the TA developmental fields.

The operation of the Register is overseen by the IDTA Professional Practice Committee.

The IDTA Practitioner Register contains the following statement:

This Register is provided by the IDTA to assist the public in finding practitioners of transactional analysis who are engaged in the process of becoming qualified and specialise in developmental rather than therapeutic applications.

Whilst the IDTA has checked the commitment to professional training and supervision of those listed, and requires all members to abide by a comprehensive set of policies and codes of practice, the IDTA cannot be held liable for actions of its members.

Classifications

The Register contains entries for Practitioners who have completed sufficient hours of advanced training and supervision from internationally accredited TA trainers/supervisors, together with practical experience with clients, to demonstrate their ongoing commitment to their own personal and professional development.

The IDTA operates a separate Professional Register on which are listed: Student Members with contracts for CTA training with EATA/ITAA/WPATA or ICDTA; Professional Members who have attained CTA (Certified Transactional Analyst) status with EATA/ITAA, and Teaching Members, who have attained TSTA (Teaching and Supervising Transactional Analyst) status with EATA/ITAA or those with contracts for TSTA training with EATA/ITAA – will be shown as (Provisional) Teaching Members, or those who have attained TTA or STA Status with EATA/ITAA – will be shown as (TTA only) or (STA only)

Requirements for Entry

In all cases, those entered in the register must:

- maintain appropriate, paid-up membership of IDTA and of the Register and continue to abide by all IDTA policies and codes of practice
- meet any specific requirements that may be applied to them as a result of any ethical or professional practice complaints

- have no ethical or professional practice sanctions prohibiting or suspending entry in the register
- complete and submit appropriate annual training summaries, CPD forms or annual returns
- meet other requirements as outlined elsewhere in this document
- meet any general requirements that may be amended or appended to this document by the IDTA in the future
- be functioning professionally in one of the developmental fields of application of TA

Failure to Comply

In the event that a registered member does not comply with the requirements for registration, one of the following courses of action will be initiated:

- in case of an Ethics complaint, the usual procedures as outlined in the IDTA Code of Ethics will be followed
- in case of a Professional Practices complaint, the usual procedures as outlined in the IDTA Code of Professional Practices will be followed
- in case of failure to meet Registration requirements in ways that do not generate ethics or professional practice complaints, the Professional Practices Committee will have the authority to investigate the matter and to suspend the registration until the requirements are met
- in case of concurrent failures to meet more than one of the requirements, temporary suspension of registration will be automatic until all failures are rectified
- in case of failure to meet requirements in spite of intervention by the Professional Practices Committee, the registration may be permanently revoked after Council ratification.

Suspension or removal from the Register will not in itself affect IDTA Membership status; this will only occur via procedures outlined in the various IDTA policies and codes of practice.

Procedures

On initial entry and at least annually, the IDTA will send each member a Registration form.

Members are responsible for returning the Registration form if they wish:

- to have contact details included with their entry (name, tel no, fax no, address, email, webpage may be added)
- to have their name or any contact details removed from the Register
- to up-date for name changes (IDTA needs documentary evidence), classification changes (IDTA needs to see contracts or certificates etc), or contact details
